

Shipping Estimator

Jennifer M - 2023-02-10 - Working with Products

The Shipping Estimator provides estimated shipping costs from various postal carriers (UPS, DHL, USPS, FedEx). Only carriers that service the location you enter in the Ship To and Ship From fields will display shipping estimates. The shipping estimate calculation is based on the unit weight per product and each carrier type.

To use the Shipping Estimator, go to the Product Detail page and click on the Estimate Shipping button.

Information provided by the supplier will be auto generated into the appropriate fields. For example, if the supplier has provided the item or package weight, the information will be displayed in the Products per Package and Weight per Package boxes. The total pounds and number of packages will be calculated after you click on the Get Estimates button.

There is also a dropdown with standard packaging sizes available to help calculate shipping rates.

The Ship From will display the supplier's location and Ship To will display the location saved within your ESP account, but both are adjustable. When you are ready, click on the Get Estimates button.

These charges are based on the carrier's daily rates and product information provided by the supplier. It is only an estimate. Packaging and carrier specific considerations may affect final shipping costs. Learn more about shipping and contact the supplier for exact charges.
